

By Brendan Paisley Our Auld Firm Fitba Correspondent

[Editor: A reoccurrence of a long term blether injury has confined BBC Scotlandshire's Brian Traitor to his sick bed. Please send Big Brian a get well soon message if you can find the comment facility on his blog. In the meantime we've found a replacement to write this week's column.]

Euro 2014 qualifier action had the fans anticipating a pressure cooker of a match.

Wee Eck, the player coach of Salmond's Separatists, carelessly managed to lose two players when one of the ball boys exchanged the half time oranges for lemons.

Even after a fans' ballot the players complained the lemons were giving them a bad case of the inside rights. But Wee Eck kept his job when both defenders proclaimed they were still willing to play for the jersey on a free agent basis.

Key players for Union Disunited have still to declare a preference for lemons or oranges.

Bad boy Martin should have been yellow carded for his abusive language to other players but the referee believed his liar liar pants on fire excuses. He was pulled from the action as Unionist United changed to a novel formation where all the players were playing on the right of the park.

Star striker Sturgeon has been struggling to get a decent kick about all week. During a late night training session she was presented with a ball that kept deflating every time she tried to take a shot. Equipment supplier Brewer's Baw & Bag told BBC Scotlandshire:

"This type of kit failure is actually quite common. You'll certainly be seeing far more of it in the future."

Up and coming left winger Jamie Boy Hepburn was brought on to replace Sturgeon but referee 'brillo heid' Neil blew the half time whistle just as he swung back to score a goal that would have seen Wee Eck's side taking a half time lead.

The crowd then turned on the referee and his assistants by chanting: "Who's the bastards in the black... a parcel o' rogues in the black!"

Related Articles

---

Comments

Due to the huge number of complaints, comments are no longer banned on BBC Scotlandshire News pages.

{fcomment}

Comments or no comments, it's still OUR job to tell YOU what to think - NOT the other way around.